

Eilean Siar Coastal Flood Warning Service

The Scottish Environment Protection Agency (SEPA) is helping Scotland to prepare more powerfully for future increased flooding with a new coastal flood warning service for Eilean Siar. New modelling gives us more information than ever before about the potential coastal flood risk and impacts caused by storm surges, high tides and wave overtopping.

SEPA's Floodline Service provides 24 new Flood Warning Areas (see map) across the islands to help you prepare for the impacts of flooding.

Nearly 7000 residents and businesses across the islands will be able to benefit from the new flood warning service. If you live, work or travel in the areas at risk of coastal flooding, by signing up, you could benefit from advance notice when flooding is expected.

WHY SHOULD I SIGN UP FOR FLOODLINE?

Floodline is a free service providing live flooding information and advice 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

When flooding is forecast in your area, Floodline will send you a message by phone or text, to let you know that a Flood Warning has been issued. The message will prompt you to visit the SEPA website for full details about the flooding situation.
